

Around the Block
QUILT SHOP

August 28, 2015

I'm sure this never happens to you. I go to my yearly mammogram appointment at 1:30 on Wednesday, step up to the desk, give my name, and I'm told, "You were a no show for your 11 appointment." And I say, "No, it was for 1:30," and I dig my appointment card out & hand it over to prove that it was 1:30. She looks at the card & says, "No, this is for August 31," and actually, it was for August 31, 2016. My next year's doc appointment. So I check my phone, and, yup, mammogram set for 11.

Clearly, I am someone who should not be out without a keeper.

But that's not what I want to talk about. That's just one thing that went wrong this week. I want to talk about cell phones. And cars.

The problem with having a cell phone is you have to always carry it with you. Otherwise it isn't any good.

For example, on Sunday, driving to the shop, I noticed that my car didn't really want to shift gears. So this posed a variety of problems, the least of which was whether the car would still be driveable on Monday-I had a doc appointment on Monday, that yearly appointment that you can't cancel because it's impossible to reschedule. The other problem was, the car was most comfortable in second. Meaning, it was the only gear I could get engaged.

So I used my cell phone to text Jean to remind her about covering for me at the shop and to tell her my car woes. This is an important part of the story, because it meant I pulled my phone out of my pocket and set it by my sewing machine.

After I closed the shop, I drove to a friend's house for supper, all in second gear. After supper, I made the mistake of trying to get the car into first gear. Which meant I took it out of second and tried to put it into first. For those of you not familiar with clutch cars, you don't go from a stop into second gear. You always start with first gear. That's why it's called first.

Three minutes later I managed to get it back into second and I drove home. In second. At some point while driving, I realized my phone was still at the shop, but I didn't want to drive back because I didn't want to get stuck at the shop. That was my second mistake. The first, obviously, was leaving the phone in the first place. Now the mistake that I didn't make was pulling into the garage. I was smart enough to realize that backing up required putting the car into reverse. Another gear I was sure I couldn't use.

So Monday morning, I get an early start, just in case. The car starts just fine. In second gear. But I get bold. Part way down the road I decide to try 3rd gear. Getting the gear out of 2nd was easy, getting it back in gear was impossible. So now I'm in neutral. And going no where. I coast over to the side of the road and sit for a while, trying to convince the gears to shift back into second.

And that's when I realize I don't have a phone. My 2nd mistake.

And walking the mile & ½ back home won't do me much good. Because when the phones at the shop died, I took the house phones to the shop. Which meant no phones at home. All I could do would be to send an email and hope someone was on line.

A little more wiggling, though, and I got the car back into 2nd gear. I get to the shop, pushing 30mph the whole way. Now I call for help. The service place can't get to my car until Wednesday. Between then & now I have a doc appt, bank deposit to make, choir practice, and, of course, the shop and the mammogram. And a car that may just completely unclutch, stranding me somewhere in neutral.

So it's car rental time. But first I have to get to the service station, across town. So I drive in 2nd through town-it was that or the interstate and I didn't think traveling 30 would work in a 65 mph zone. I just hoped I won't stall out somewhere, like in a round about lane, or on top of the viaduct.

After I get back to the shop, it's car rental time. Are you all on the edge of your seats by now? Isn't this compelling drama? Anyway within 15 minutes the car is hired & the rental car place picks me up-in a car blasting air conditioning making the inside of the car colder than most winter days.

The guys at the car rental place are nice, & I even get an upgrade. But they definitely want too much info & I'm not in the mood to be chatty: So your car is getting fixed? Will insurance cover it? What is your deductible? What year & make of the car getting repaired? I almost asked, what difference does that make? But I kept my mouth shut. What they didn't ask to see was a current insurance card. They just asked me which insurance I had & whether it was full coverage or just liability. And in the end I had to put up 5 days of rental plus a deposit for the car.

Fifteen minutes later, while I'm driving back to the shop, a friend offers me a loaner truck.

That was Monday. You already know what happened Wednesday.

So why is this all about cell phones? You need to carry them to make them work. This is not the first time I've had car trouble and my phone is somewhere other than with me. And the cell phone is always right when it comes to appointments. So always know where your cell phone is. Even better, always carry it.

Seriously, how did we survive 20 years ago without them?

Oh-almost forgot. I just needed a clutch hose. All the fluid had drained out. I'm a happy camper again. I have my Subaru back. And my phone is sitting on the table next to me.

Better put it in my pocket.

HAND APPLIQUE CLUB

This is a get-together & stitch class. Many of us are trying hand applique these days-- patterns are calling for a lot more applique. The club is designed for quilters who already do some hand applique, but beginners are welcome as well. We will share techniques, suggest patterns, talk about threads and, in general, just stitch. A little quiet time away from the distractions of home is what we need to get our projects done.

HAND EMBROIDERY CLUB

If you want to learn to hand embroider or just brush up your technique, join us on the second Saturday of the month from 10 to noon. We provide free vintage patterns, and this year we will have free patterns of girls with hats, that you can embroider, embellish and color. Each month Kathy Sconce shows us a new stitch to try, plus, she guides us through thread choices, how to knot, fabrics to use, and tracing techniques.

Knit Pickin' Club

This is another get-together class to sit & knit, work on our projects, share information and get some help. We will share techniques, suggest patterns, but mainly we'll sit & knit (or pick).

Toad Toters

On full moon days (as noted in the calendar) you will get 20% off all purchases (not otherwise discounted) that you can fit in your bag. You must bring your bag to participate. Full Moon Days: May 4 (observed), June 1, July 1, August 29.

Discount Policy

We will honor only one discount -- whichever is largest. You can't combine a 10% with a 25% discount to get a 35% discount. On this we can't be bribed.

Color of the Month

May flowers/floral, June baby novelties, July blue, August black & gray

Join the fun and come feel the difference of quality fabrics.

Happy quilting!
